Bowen R. Church of Providence, ac-knowledged to be the greatest cornet-ist in the country, will appear in sev-eral solos. That he stands above all others as a cornet soloist is acknowl-edged by the best musical authorities in the country. For several years he was leader of the American band in

Mrs. Edith Swan Corbett, for several years trombone soloist with the Fadestee, the greatest ladies' musical organisation in the country, will also give several solos. For several years Mrs. Corbett has been acknowledged the leading lady trombone soloist in the country. Mrs. Corbett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Swan, who formerly resided in Danjelson, and also in Wauregan. She is at present enjoying a few days' vacation—the first in eight years—with her parents in North Sterling.

BREED THEATER.

The popular play house offers to its patrons today a complete new programme of the latest and best photoplays. Her Diary, a Vitagraph feature, is a story of a Mrs. Swanson, a widow of gentle birth in reduced ciramstances, fho is obliged to sell her home, which is purchased by her avarieous brother Jack. She uses the money to keep her only son, Warren, is college. He graduates with high honors, and has scarcely started on a business career, when he is falsely secused of defalcation. She spends her savings in his defense but in vain. Har son in prison, and her money sone, aged, and too proud to ask for assistance, she goes to the poorhouse. After three years she receives word that her brother Jack has died and willed her the property which he so heartlessiy took from her; in fact, he machines and so get by lead on in the opposite direction. The collision wrecked both machines and so get by used and cohand speeded head on into another that her brother Jack has died and willed her the property which he so heartlessly took from her; in fact, he makes her the sole heir of all his wealth. She returns to the old homested. Sitting in her loneliness she takes her constant companion, her diarry of the eventful happenings of her life, from her handbag and reads the records of the past. They appear vividly before her, from her wedding day to the time of her boy's arrest; then the sacrifice of her home, the victim of her brother, her son's imprisonment and her journey to the poorbouse. These entries touch her deeply and while weeping great tears of sadness her boy returns to her from jell, saying the guilty man on his deathbed confessed the crime for which I suffered, but today I am increasi, free and again with you to sustain and comfort you for all you have done and passed through for me."

ORDERED CLOSED.

Of late years the bank has been making money and at the annual meeting, held about two weeks ago, the reports showed that a gain of $51,000 had been made during the past year. The total of deposits at the present time is about $350,000. A great percentage of this is in gilt edge se-While the bank may be closed for the full period called for in the in-function (four months), it may be opened before the expiration of that period, it may be closed for a longer time—that cannot be determined at present. The investments of the bank are earning more than twice the smount each year of the shortage mentioned, $18,800, and those investments will continue to earn a profit as well during the time that the bank is closed as when it was doing business in the regular way. This means ness in the regular way. This means ness in the regular way. This means that the depositors are extremely unlikely to be called upon to face any serious loss. They may be put to some inconvenience if they desire to use their deposits, but the indications are at present that their losses, if any cover will be in interest with the occur, will be in interest rather than on the principal.

Just how the rank and file of the depositors will regard the situation was not made evident during Tuesday, for few of them knew that the bank had been closed, but it is not believed that they will be greatly upset, the reassuring statement of Bank Commissioner Lippitt that they need have no fear as to the ultimate outhave no fear as to the ultimate outcome being from a source and so positive as to command the utmost confidence. The statement of Treasurer Young as to the earning capacity of the bank should also be a factor in relieving any doubt or worry that may afflict those who have accounts with the institution. The depositors are manly Windham county people, the majority of them having balances that do not total large sums. Many of the mill and factory operatives in Danielson and surrounding towns have accounts in the bank.

With the teachers' committee.

Miss Edith Fuller has been elected to teach the school at East Killingly during the coming year.

The members of the bard voted that it be recommended to the selectmen that the old and unused schoolhouse at Mashentuck be sold, as the structure is rapidly falling into decay. Some of the other district school bouses have been disposed of by the selectmen since the consolidation of the schools of the town.

The bids for the transportation of school children were received and contracts awarded.

No Lack of Confidence. A good sign Tuesday was the con-dence with which the explanation of the discrepancy was received. The man who make up the official board of the bank are respected citizens of their respective towns in every in-stance. They are successful business men and have always enjoyed the complete confidence of those who have had to deal with them. Every man of them has met with prosperity in his own business and is highly regarded wherever known.

Officers and Directors.

President, John A. Paine, Danielson, retired lumber dealer; vice president, Rowland R. James, Danielson, retired grocer: secretary and treasurer; Chaincey C. Young, Danielson; directors, James Perkins, Danielson, retired dry goods marchant; F. E. Bitgood, dry goods, Danielson; Representative Frank P. Warren, Danielson, oaal and wood; W. P. Kelley, Dayville, retired coal and wood dealer and member of the commission of the Connecticut epilepile selony) Frank T. Preston, town clerk of Killingly Representative Charles S. Hyde, Canterbury; N. G. Williams, Brooklyn; ex-Representative John W. Gallap, Danielson.

No developments in the situation are expected for a few days, as much time may be required to locate the discrepancy found. In the meantime depositors must await the outcome of the review of the bank's books that will be made by the officials of the institution in their endeavor to account for a loss that on Tuesday was very much of a mystery to them.

NATIONAL BANK

To Accommodate Depositors in Sav-ings Bank Until Embargo is Raised.

Cashier Nathan Prince of the Windham county National bank made an announcement Tuesday evening that will be of special interest to the depositors whose funds in the Windham Savings bank were tied up, when the latter institution temporarily ceased doing business Tuesday, Mr. Prince said that his bank will be pleased to accommodate depositors of the savaccommodate depositors of the sav-ings bank who need money, and that their pass books will be accepted as collateral for generous loans on the amounts which the books show them credited with. This courtesy will un-doubtedly prove of great benefit to many of the depositors of the other bank who may need money for imme-diate use. diate use.

IN AUTO COLLISION.

Members of Godreau Family and Frank Larose of Moosup Badly In-

Providence papers of Tuesday morning carried a feature story of an automobile smash that occurred about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon on the Boston Neck road, leading from Narragansett Pier, and in which three Danielson people—Nestor Godreau, Emil Godreau, and their sister, Marion Godreau, all of Dyer street—were injured while riding in the car of their relative by marriage, Frank Larose of Moosup.

Sifletracking James,

My sinter's got a felier, and I've mede a hit with him.

My sister calls me 'James," but he 'most always calls me "Jim.

An' say, we're friends. He sets about bird nests an' swimmin' helea, an' tells me about breathin' deep, as' about vanitin' poles, But sister she looks at the clock One night she yawned an' said:

"How time has flown. I think it's time for James to go to bed."

But I jest wouldn't go to bed; I wanted to stay there.

An' she was mad as all git out. But, geel I didn't care.

Ber feller pulled two bended nails out of his pocket and He said: 'This here's a puzzle, Jen." an' put them in my band. "This bet you can't git them apart." An' I said: 'Bet I do'!" He said: 'We'll sit out on the perch an' lenve the room to you. An' when you've got them things apart just give the door a knock;
I'll bet a nickel you can't git it done by 10 o'clock." An' it was sure some puzzle! I tried an' tried an' tried an' tried.

An' I was still a-tryin' when they come in from outside.

An' then he showed me how it wes, an' it was silek as pie.
An' every night when he has some he's had something that I could work on, an' he says that I am most industrious;
An' sister's interested too, an' she don't make no fuss,
But jost gits up an' goes with him outside the room, so she won't git my mind off my work er interfere with me.
She sast him once: "When James has got them done where shall we but"
An' he said: "There are other trabe-

An' he said: "There are other tricks; jest leave this thing to me."

An' it's jest heaps o' fun to work en them the way I do.

An' every line he comes around he brings me somethin' new.

An' they go 'way an' let me be, den't bother me at all.

They sit toxether on the perch or ent there in the hall

To wait fill I learn how to do the thing I'm workin on.

An' almost fore I know it all the evenin' will be gone.

I'm giad she's got him for a heap. I'm kind of stuck on him—

When sieter calls me 'James' he always says my name is 'Jim'
